

Remember...

Don't go if you don't know!
You can prevent driveway runovers.

For more information

Kidsafe SA
08 8161 6318
www.kidsafesa.com.au

Proudly Supported by

Restrict access to the driveway from the house and front yard by using fences and gates.

Always walk around the car and check before moving it.

Farms may not have a clear driveway.
Create a safe play area away from where farm vehicles and machinery are used.

Keeping children safe around the driveway

Don't go if you don't know!
You can prevent driveway runovers.

Proudly Supported by

A driveway is a small road. Don't let children play in the driveway.

All cars have a large blind space – some up to 15 metres.

15 metres

Always watch children when the car is to be moved. Hold their hand or hold them close to keep them safe.

If you are the only one at home, have children in the car with you when moving it.

Driveway Safety Checklist

- Are you aware of your car's blind space?
- Do you know where children are when you move the car?
- Do they have a safe place to wave bye-bye from?
- Are children safely holding hands with another adult?
- If you are the only adult at home, are children inside the car with you?
- Do you have a safe play area away from the driveway?
- Have you walked around your car and checked before getting in to move it?
- Do you always have children in mind when using your reversing mirrors, sensors or cameras?
- Have you put your hand-brake on before getting out of the car?